

1 And like I would say most cooperators, you can call
2 them snitches, call them whatever you want, what they do
3 for the most part they don't say "Aha, I'm going to go and 4 lie to the police. I'm going to go lie to the DA". You
5 don't have to like them or anything about them. You have 6 to understand their motives.

7 When you analyze it logically use your common sense and 8 decide are they going to go and lie to the police? As a
9 cooperator her point is to give the police useful valuable 10 information. That's what you're getting in return for 11 useful information. They don't want to give lies. Don't 12 you think in most cases it's pretty easy to figure out when 13 someone is lying to you? Either at first when they talk to 14 you or certainly when they do some more digging
15 investigating and talk to more witnesses those lies are 16 going to become obvious.

17 Now, a cooperator who has already decided to do that,
18 if they have any brains at all, is tell the truth. It's 19 the only way to make sure you don't get caught in a lie.
20 Because if you get caught in a lie you lose your whole 21 deal. The only way to not get caught in the lie is very 22 simple. You don't tell a lie in the first place. You tell 23 the truth. It is just common sense.

24 You know, in a different context someone gets arrested 25 if they committed a crime, get caught and they speak to the

Lourdes Torres-Fuster, Senior Court Reporter